

The Italian In Me: Fun At The Globe Theater

By Sherry Dodd

Dina Morrone's one woman show, The Italian In Me (held over) at the Globe Theater is performed Sundays only at 3 p.m. 1107 Kings Road in West Hollywood and it's tons of fun.

Critically acclaimed, written and performed by Marrone, the show takes us from her humble beginnings as a young girl living in Canada with her Italian immigrant "Nana" to Rome, Italy where her acting aspirations brings her to meet and become several characters including a crazy turn as director Federico Fellini.

Morrone is attractive, convincing and captivating as each character and has a real feel for dialog and comedy as anyone with an Italian background will attest.

The comedy runs indefinitely. $15 advance tickets, $20 at the door. 323-960-5521.
